Together We Grow in Wisdom and Serve with Joy

Dear parents/carers,

We have had a super week with the children, who have settled straight back into their learning and routines after the half term break. Please look out for new knowledge organisers on Class Dojo for the new theme learning for the term.

Thank you for your continued support with the ongoing changes we are having to make in response to government guidance, it really does make all the difference to us all.

Across the school, we have made the most of this glorious weather and have been outside as much as possible. Fox Tor impressed us with the application of their map reading skills when they went for their village walk. Oke Tor re-enacted the Gunpowder plot outside in the sunshine, demonstrating their acting skills. Yes Tor and Brentor have taken lots of their learning outside, as always and have really enjoyed making their own personal bags of play dough, developing their maths and science knowledge. Great Links thoroughly enjoyed their first rugby lesson, despite the cold and wet weather, we are hoping the weather will be kinder next week.

Miss Davy

School Improvement:

Recovery curriculum:

As you are aware, we have started the recovery curriculum sessions for this half term. Thank you for your support in dropping and collecting the children at various times, we are already seeing the impact of the sessions in narrowing some of the gaps we had identified at the beginning of the Autumn Term.

We are focusing on key skills in core subject areas in these sessions, such as phonics, reading fluency, reading comprehension, spelling and multiplication knowledge.

Reading at home:

We cannot emphasise the importance of reading at home, not just with younger children but throughout their school journey. Research shows that this impacts positively on educational outcomes, better health and well-being. Please see the research links below for more information:

If you would like any support or guidance, please do not hesitate to contact Miss Davy or any member of school staff. We are all passionate and committed about reading.

Life skills:

We have noticed that several of our pupils are finding cutting their food up at lunch time challenging. Please could we ask you to encourage your child to use their cutlery correctly at home and have a go at cutting up their food? As you know, we are encouraging independence and this will really help develop this. Thank you.

School attendance and absence

Going to school regularly is important for your child's future. Parents are responsible for making sure their children receive full-time education. Parents are legally responsible for making sure that children attend school. If your child doesn't go to school, you could get fined or prosecuted.

Benefits of school attendance

Good attendance at school is not just beneficial, it's essential. Attending school is directly linked to improved exam performance which should in turn lead to further learning opportunities and better job prospects. As well as this, going to school helps to develop:

- Friendships
- Social skills
- Team values
- Life skills
- Cultural awareness
- Career pathways

Absence from school

- All schools must record details of pupils' attendance and absence at school. They do this at the beginning of morning and afternoon sessions meaning that each day your child receives two half day marks.
- If your child is going to be absent from school, (e.g. for an unavoidable appointment) then you should let the school know as soon as possible. If your child has been absent due to an unexpected event such as bereavement or illness then you must also let the school know on the first day of absence in accordance with the school's attendance policy.
- The school will then record the absence. If you fail to notify the school as to why your child has not been present then the school may record that period of absence as being unauthorised.
- The Education Welfare Service (EWS) has access to all attendance information for each pupil and if your child is missing school without good reason, schools and the EA have the authority to find out why.

Attendance in figures

- Schools will advise parents of a child's attendance levels at least once a year. This will usually include a percentage attendance figure.
- Achieving 90 per cent in an exam or test is a fantastic result but if your child is at school for only 90 per cent of the school year then they will have missed 19 days - almost four whole weeks of school.
- For primary-age children, this can mean almost 120 guided learning hours. This is a big gap for any child to make up.

- If your child is a pupil at post-primary school, 120 guided learning hours is the equivalent of studying one full-time GCSE (normally taken over two years).

How to prevent your child from missing school

You can help prevent your child missing school by:

- having a routine from an early age and sticking to it
- making sure your child understands the importance of good attendance and punctuality
- making sure they understand the possible implications for themselves and you as a parent if they don't attend
- taking an interest in their education - ask about school work and encourage them to get involved in school activities
- discussing any problems they may have at school and letting their teacher or Head Teacher know about anything that is causing concern
- not letting them take time off school for minor ailments or holidays during term time

To avoid disrupting your child's education, you should arrange (as far as possible), appointments and outings:

- after school hours
- at weekends
- during school holidays

Term time holidays

- Term time holidays have been increasing over the last number of years. Parents should make every effort to ensure that their child does not miss school due to holiday plans. Schools are not obliged to agree to you taking your child on holiday during term time. They are entitled to record such holidays as being an unauthorised absence

Support for parents

- As a parent, if you find it hard to talk to your child about their attendance at school or other school-related matters, support is available.

Support from your child's school

- Your child's school should have an attendance policy in place and made available to you, normally from the school website. As a parent or guardian, you should ensure that you adhere to the guidance provided in that policy regarding attendance and notifying absence.
- Your child's school is the first place to discuss any attendance problems. The school should try to agree a plan with you to improve your child's attendance.

- A school can refer your child to the Education Welfare Service (EWS) if they feel there is reason to be concerned at their level of attendance. The EWS is a specialist education support service which helps young people of a compulsory school age and their families to get the best out of the education system. The EWS can offer advice and support to help you and your child to have good attendance at school

Support from the Education Authority

The Education Authority (EA) can also help if you are struggling to make sure that your child goes to school

Support from other organisations

As well as school and the EA, you may also be able to get advice and assistance from other organisations. These may include your local community centre or local community group. ParentingNI provide a wide range of helpful advice and resources as well as a parent's helpline.

Parent Teacher Associations can also provide further information and resources through their website at ParentKind

School Dinners – Please can all Dinners be paid in advance of at least a week via School Money * Sickness and diarrhoea - If your child experiences an upset stomach, they should be kept off school for a minimum of 48hrs, in order to minimise the spread the illnesses * Morning drop-off - Children should be at school in time for the bell at 9am. If your child is ill, or will be in late, please could you make sure that you contact school (01566 783 273) so we can inform class teachers. If your child is not in school by 9.30am, and we have not received a message, they could be registered as late, and this will affect their attendance * Wet Weather Coats - please ask that all children come
