THANKS A MILLION NHS HEROES

The NHS is something that has, at some point, touched all our lives. From before we are even born, the National Health Service, and the incredible professionals within it who care for us, is a part of British life.

Today, more than ever, we cherish those who dedicate themselves to our care, as they work tirelessly to care for people in the face of the Coronavirus pandemic.

From nurses and doctors, pharmacists to cleaners employed by the NHS and any other part of health and care - we have never needed them more.

So let's show them some love.

I would like you to write the NHS staff a letter or poem to thank them for what they are doing for all of us. If you can email it/send a photo of it to your class email address, or post it to us we will share it on our FaceBook page and forward to our local GP Surgeries, MKUH as well as our local press. Please send before next Friday 1st May

(NB: please only use your first name at the bottom of your letter and use the school address and not your own when writing it in the top right hand corner)
