national average. The year 2 pupils who had not achieved the required level would be provided with interventions to ensure progress. It was recognised that poor phonics did impact on reading ability but many children were able to read well without phonics.

- Attainment in year 2 whilst not being as high as usual was considered good against national figures and not a significant issue as it appeared to be specific for that cohort who had a low starting base.
- Governors noted that indications from the previous year's data was that that 20% of current year 6 pupils would not achieve the target level for writing target levels. There was a discussion about this, which led to Governors asking for an emphasis on early intervention with monitoring to catch under achievement earlier.
- Governors were advised that within the year 6 group from the previous year there had been some behaviour and friendship issues that had impacted on the whole class. As a result team building work, meetings with parents and policy reviews had taken place.

b) School Development and Self Evaluation

The Headteacher tabled the latest versions of the school development plan and self evaluation and advised that following an evaluation of achievement, teaching, behaviour and safety and leadership and management had judged the school to be in a requiring improvement category. This was thought in the main to be due to the year 6 results and whilst there was a belief that this was cohort specific issue a full investigation would be carried out to identify any significant issues that required addressing. Governors expressed concern that the School Development Plan circulated was still not complete and did not include areas of development that had previously been agreed.

Another issue identified was pupil attitude to learning. It had been noted that disagreements at playtime sometimes affected attitude and plans for improving the playground supervision and activities to engage pupils were being put in place.

6.38pm Ros Toomey arrived

An Ofsted inspector had been appointed in a supportive role to assist the leadership team with evaluation and school improvement planning. Governors re-iterated that they would come in and support staff in progressing the School Development Plan.
