Autumn Term Issue 01

Dear Parent/Carer

WELCOME BACK!! A huge welcome back to you all. It has been so lovely this week to see all the children back in school, learning, laughing and being children.

On Tuesday, I was so impressed with the ease in which the children walked into school, into their new classrooms and just got straight back into the swing of things. It was remarkable... once again, the children have shown us all how to do things. Well done to ALL the children.

COVID19. Cornwall remains an Enhanced Response Area, meaning we have very high case numbers and high transmission rates. As such we have entered into the new government guidelines with a degree of caution. We remain firmly committed to keeping the children, staff and the community as safe as possible, and of course - keeping school open. Thank you to all parents who have followed our request to continue to wear face masks when on school grounds. I will keep you informed of any new changes or developments with regards to COVID on a weekly basis.

Other news: Year 6 have George Eustice MP visiting them tomorrow morning to talk about sustainability and environmental issues. This will be a great learning experience for the children, who have sadly missed out on a lot of things, such as residential trips these past two years. I hope we can make it up to them somehow. We already have a few things planned for them to make this final year at Lanner as special and memorable as possible.

At this point, it is too early to start talking about Christmas productions and performances etc, but I am very conscious it will come around very quickly. As soon as we know more ourselves, we will be letting you know. I think this year is going to be another year of uncertainty and responding to changes and situations on a weekly, daily or even hourly basis. Sadly, we have all become skilled in dealing with changes and not being able to plan to far ahead.

Finishing on a positive note: Lessons and learning are great - our literacy and booked based curriculum seems to be working its magic again and children are engaged and already producing amazing pieces of learning. Despite all the challenges that face us this year, I can assure you of two things. The high standards we place on teaching and learning here at Lanner will never slip and we will continue to love, nurture and look after your children to the very best of our ability.

I hope you all have a lovely weekend.
Kieran Walsh
