Governor observations and comments What an exciting first ever school trip for the foundation class and that was the atmosphere in the classroom before they set off. The children listened carefully to their instructions and were very eager to get going. They all behaved very well on the bus. Once at the museum all of the children were engaged and participated in all of the activities. They were split into 2 groups and listened to a story about a mouse and subsequently followed the mouse trail around the entire museum, looking at treasures and artefacts. They were learning new vocabulary as they went around all of the exhibits. There were a number of parents accompanying the trip and all them enjoyed the experience.
Any issues for the governing body Such a lovely trip, I would encourage other governors to join in with a trip if they are able to.
