

Monday 22nd June Session 1.

This week we are going to be looking at 'Wangari's Trees of Peace.' This is a true story from Kenya, a story of a clever, brave woman who won the Nobel Peace prize in 2004.

Listen to Wangari's Trees of Peace

Now look at these questions and talk about them with someone from your family. There are no right or wrong answers. The important part of this exercise is to show you have ideas.

Discussion Questions:

Why were all the trees in Wangari's village cut down?

Why did they cut down trees?

Is it ever okay to cut down a tree?

Who is responsible for taking care of the land?

Why do you think Wangari leaves her village to study in the U.S.? Why can't she study in Africa?

Why is Wangari imprisoned for trying to protect trees? Isn't that a good thing?

Are laws always fair?

Why do you think there are only women planting trees in this book?

Why do some people say, "Women can't do this?"
