Warming up:

Don't clap this one back. Here is an online version of this listening/rhythm warm up. Teach this warm up to someone at home once you are confident you know how it goes.

Singing:

Choose a song to sing along to. You can find the lyrics and performance tracks at this Sing Up website:

I like 'Down By The Bay' - you can invent your own wacky rhyming verses.

Kitchen Percussion

Can you remember what types of instruments belong to the percussion family?

Any instruments that you can shake or tap like drums or maracas belong to the percussion family. You can discover more about the percussion instruments and what they sound like here:

Have a go at creating some 'found percussion instruments' out of non-breakable items around your kitchen. Maybe you have some plastic tubs in the recycling that could be turned into drums, or a metal bowl that could be a chime if you tap it with a spoon. Just remember to be careful and don't hit anything too hard!

Watch the following youtube video of Rob showing how he created his own kitchen percussion section to inspire you. In the video you will learn a Brazilian samba rhythm, but you can make up your own rhythms too.
