

WALT: Consolidate our recipe writing

YEAR 5 2020

OGPS

LESSON 4

So far this week...

You should have complete an amazing recipe, either based off Jez's writing or a family recipe.

Today you are going to make your own recipe!

Step 1: research or have an idea that you can write a lot about.

Step 2: write your recipe.

Step 3: make sure it is Year 5 worthy.

Step 1: My research

So I found myself researching about Special Forces and the idea of spy's having to disguise themselves so I decided to write up about how to become a Master of Disguise.

Step 2: So here is part of my first attempt of my writing.

How to be a Master of Disguise

Have you ever wondered what it would be like if you were James Bond or Sherlock Holmes and you had to suddenly change your identity? Well read on and you will find out what exactly you need to do.

Things you will need:

- drama skills
- make-up skills
- gadgets
- accents

Method:

Opportunity, that right opportunity. You need to look around you and use that to help you. Maybe you're near a shopping centre, a busy tourist attraction or even a quiet school building. You need to decide what you can be as quickly as possible so that you won't stand out...

Step 3: does it match the toolkit, well there are definitely some improvements I can make.

How to be a Master of Disguise

Have you ever wondered what it would be like if you were James Bond or Sherlock Holmes and you had to suddenly change your identity? Well read on and you will find out what exactly you need to do.

Things you will need:

- drama skills
- make-up skills
- gadgets
- accents

Method:

Opportunity, that right opportunity. You need to look around you and use that to help you. Maybe you're near a shopping centre, a busy tourist attraction or even a quiet school building. You need to decide what you can be as quickly as possible so that you won't stand out...

Could add more of a description to help capture the reader.

Great opportunity for using semi-colons in a paragraph.

Language could be up-levelled to be more like that expected in Year 5.

Step 3: does it match the toolkit, well there are definitely some improvements I can make.

EDITED

How to be a Master of Disguise

Have you ever wondered what it would be like if you were James Bond or Sherlock Holmes and you had to suddenly change your identity? Ever wondered how you would narrowly escape if you were being hunted down by the villains and needed to hide? Well read on and you will find out what exactly you need to do.

Things you will need: drama skills - this is key as you need to be able to act and take on the character of someone completely different; make-up skills (which is vital if you need to change how you LOOK);- gadgets this is not a necessity as you may not have time, but a small amount of talcum powder, or a costume ready underneath is all you need; accents if you sound different and look different they'll definitely not suspect it's you.

Method:

Opportunity, that right opportunity. You need to look around you and use your environment to aid you. Perhaps you're near a shopping centre, a busy tourist attraction or even a quiet school building. You need to decide what you can be as quickly as possible so that you won't stand out...

Could add more of a description to help capture the reader.

Great opportunity for using semi-colons in a paragraph.

Language could be up-levelled to be more like that expected in Year 5.

Task: Consolidate our recipe writing

Right so now it is your turn.

If you are stuck for ideas here are some websites you can look up:

<https://www.ehow.com/crafts/crafts-for-kids/crafts-kids-projects>

<https://www.easypeasyandfun.com/spring-crafts-for-kids/>

<https://www.thebalancecareers.com/jobs-kids-all-ages-2085439>

Remember you can also do this in bullet point form e.g.

For lunch I had:

- thee eggs, which were scrambled with cheese;*
- two slices of toast (with melted butter of course);*
- a Sainsbury's basic sesame seeded bagel;*
- and some crumpets – which may have had a bit too much Nutella on top.*