Reproducibility of high-performance quantum dot single-photon sources:

Supplement 1

Hélène Ollivier,† Ilse Maillette de Buy Wenniger,† Sarah Thomas,† Stephen C. Wein,‡ Abdelmounaim Harouri,† Guillaume Coppola,† Paul Hilaire,† Clément Millet,†,§ Aristide
Lemaître,† Isabelle Sagnes,† Olivier Krebs,‡ Loïc Lanco,†,§ Juan C. Loredo,† Carlos Antón,†
Niccolo Somaschi,¶ and Pascale Senellart,†

†Centre de Nanosciences et Nanotechnologies, CNRS, Université Paris Saclay, 10 Boulevard
Thomas Gobert, 91120 Palaiseau, France
‡Institute for Quantum Science and Technology and Department of Physics and Astronomy,
University of Calgary, Calgary, Canada T2N 1N4
¶Quandela, SAS, 86 rue de Paris, 91400 Orsay, France
§Université de Paris, Centre de Nanosciences et Nanotechnologies, F-91120 Palaiseau, France

E-mail: niccolo.somaschi@quandela.com; pascale.senellart-mardon@c2n.upsaclay.fr

All the figures of this document contain on the left side the second-order correlation histogram
$g^{(2)}(\tau)$ as a function of the delay between two detectors, and on the right side the second-order correlation in a Hong-Ou-Mandel two-photon interference experiment. Following this page, there are three pages containing a total of 15 figures each showing two histograms.
Figure S1: Source S1.

Figure S2: Source S2.

Figure S3: Source S3.

Figure S4: Source S4.

Figure S5: Source S5.

Figure S6: Source S6.
Figure S7: Source S7.

Figure S8: Source S8.

Figure S9: Source S9.

Figure S10: Source S10.

Figure S11: Source S11.

Figure S12: Source S12.
Figure S13: Source S13.

Figure S14: Source S14.

Figure S15: Source S15.