

Figure S7. Distance to nearest crossover position from the borders of structural variants as a function of the size of the variant region. Linear regressions revealed no significant correlation between variant size and the distance to the nearest CO position for any of the variants shown in the plots.