

Figure S3 For selected microbiome samples, plots of the likelihood ratio test statistic vs. the estimated proportion contaminated, when considered with each of the genomic DNA samples, one at a time, with the assumption that the microbiome sample is a mixture of the correct sample and that particular contaminant. Note the change in the y-axis limits in the bottom row of panels.