

Excerpt from "Through a Dragon's Eyes by Garath Half-Elven," and student comments on the story.

SUNDAY, OCTOBER 16, 2011, 4:34PM

Posted by: Jack

I flew over the dusty plain, watching the scene unfold beneath me. On my back, Rhovanir drew his long blade. The elaborate hilt glinted in the sunlight. He was my Rider, and he had always been there. Ever since I was a hatchling, he watched over me, the last dragon in all of Eldareht. The Elves on the battlefield below were fully engaged, their blades adorned with goblin blood. They fought side-by-side with the Men of Thelduin, attempting to stem the flow of the goblin warriors that so foully desecrated the Sacred Land. I hunger for their blood.

...

Add Comment \(2\)

COMMENTS

Posted by: Kari on Monday, October 17 , 2011, 11:32AM

I like this. It seems almost like a snippet from a larger story . . . my only complaint is the characters have odd names and I get them confused. But that is small. Overall, good job!

Posted by: Justin on Monday, October 17, 2011, 2:07PM

hmm . . . this is a good story but I'm confused about where and when it is set. Is it set in Algaesea or not? And what timeframe is it set in? I'm confused