Course modules (all students)

Social Science Principles
Examine the differences between the study of natural and social phenomena, and debate the credibility of different schools of thought in social science and humanities disciplines.

Research Design and Critique
Develop research planning skills, define a research problem and design a project to produce trustworthy research.

Research Project
Design and carry out research to show organisational and planning skills. Provide evidence and reference text to support your arguments.

Culture and Society in 20th-Century Europe
Learn about how cultural, religious, historical, social and demographic changes have impacted life in Europe over the last 100 years.

Skills for Study 1
Enhance your presentation, note-taking and essay-writing skills. Explore different academic learning styles, and learn how to research and properly cite your sources.

Skills for Study 2
Improve your analytical skills in examining written and spoken information, reporting your views with evidence, and learning how to apply clear judgement and reasoning.

Skills for Study 3
Build on your existing skills and learn how to research and analyse information to a high standard, as well as how to structure your arguments in writing and oral presentations.

Language for Study 3
Develop your skills and learn to read, listen and understand complex arguments in English, and give evidence of your research.

Academic and language skills modules (three-term students only)
As part of your course, you will study a range of extra modules that will support your studies and help you to develop important skills. Depending on your course option, you will explore personal development, improve your English language and study skills, and learn more about British culture to support your experiences in the UK.

UNIVERSITY OF GLASGOW

Outstanding university facilities
The University of Glasgow is well equipped for advanced studies, helping master’s students to realise their potential. The beautiful campus combines the old with the new, and £400 million has been invested in state-of-the-art facilities since 2001.

International experience
You’ll find a diverse mix of nationalities and cultures in Glasgow, which has been named the friendliest city in the world by a recent Rough Guides survey. 140+ nationalities are represented at the University, which also ranked top 5 for international student satisfaction (Lloyds Satisfaction Survey 2014).

History of excellence
Founded in 1451, the University of Glasgow is one of the oldest in the world. It has been at the forefront of UK education for centuries, and today combines modern technology and teaching methods with its historic buildings and tradition of outstanding academics.

City of culture
Glasgow is one of the UK’s cultural hotspots, with plenty to see and do during your time in the city. Museums, libraries and galleries may come in useful for your studies, while restaurants, music events, great shopping and exciting nightlife are all available to fill your leisure time.

Exceptional rankings
While highly respected in the UK, the University of Glasgow is also renowned across the globe. It is consistently ranked in the world’s top 1% of universities, and is 12th in the UK for research power (Research Excellence Framework 2014), making it a great destination for postgraduate students.

RANKED 62ND IN THE WORLD
(QS WORLD UNIVERSITY RANKINGS 2015-16)
