

Background here sandblasted with text and symbols raised, the lettering turned out to be just too small for recessed blasting, the middle of the letters would have blown off because they were so small