

EVERYDAY GRACE (Ref. 053)

Everyday Grace is a live lecture by "A Course In Miracles" Marianne Williamson. Williamson explains why humanity needs to evolve beyond where it is and how miracles can play a vital part in individual and corporate transformation, how the current age reflects a mechanistic, Newtonian worldview where the earth is as a large machine where we have little power to change objects and events outside ourselves. Echoing modern theories of Quantum Physics, she asserts that when we observe and perceive something differently, the object itself changes, and goes on to say that our species is no longer well adapted for survival because we fight too much. We must evolve past the place where the only way we fix things is to destroy them - much like the mindset found in modern medicine. Williamson shares with us five 'magic wands' that help us tap into a power that is in us, but not of us, that can do what we cannot do for ourselves.
