1. I regret I was unable to attend this meeting as I had a prior engagement in Edinburgh. Please accept my apologies
2. Too much of a travelogue - and similar to reading the National Geographic Magazine. Enjoyable but rather superficial. Pity
3. What the lecturer didn't mention was the $200-$250 surcharge per day per visitors making Bhutan an expensive place to visit.
4. Altogether excellent
5. Excellent lecture
6. A wonderful, most informative lecture.
7. This has been the best lecture this year. !!
8. Photos could have been larger as they had so much detail that was too small to see. Also several shots were shown grouped together, single would be better. Also could do with slowing down a bit.
9. The best lecture this year, she held my interest from start to finish.
10. Superb lecture full of interesting information and delivered perfectly
11. A different take on the "arts" from a country we know little about. A most enjoyable morning.
12. As usual, screen too small to see images adequately!
13. This was a very well constructed, informed and enjoyable lecture.
14. A subject I knew very little about. I now feel much better informed & fascinated.
15. The speaker tried to cover too much and spoke too fast. Time was needed to absorb the information presented about such an alien culture.
16. Best lecture this year. Most have been a disappointment.

17. One of the best! Very interesting about a country we know so little about
18. Fascinating topic which was extremely well presented. One of the best I've attended!
19. We both had to leave at 1140 and 1145, so meeting appeared a bit longer than expected. We could not stay for questions
20. Best lecture I've been to this year. I knew nothing about Bhutan yesterday now I feel I have some understanding of its culture and its place geographically, historically and politically in the surrounding area. My one criticism of the lecture would be that as I was sitting nearly at the back I couldn't see the details in the excellent pictures. Perhaps one picture to a slide, rather than three, would have been preferable. I was distracted for the first five minutes of the lecture by someone sitting behind me tearing raffle tickets from a book and putting them noisily into a bag.
21. One of the best lectures I have heard.
22. Delivery and illustrations excellent
23. Outstanding lecture. An absolute joy and an inspiration to visit Bhutan.
