

DR. MÁIRÍN GLENN

Educational consultant, author and co-convenor of the Network of Educational Action Research in Ireland.

My work

Co-convenor of NEARI (2015-Present)

The Network of Educational Action Research in Ireland

Member of Editorial Board

Educational Journal of Living Theories (EJOLTs)

Supervisor and programme designer in self-study action research (2006 -Present)

Primary school teacher and principal (to 2017)

Convening partner in VPAR SIG(2020-)

Values-based Practitioner Action Research (VPAR): a SIG of Educational Studies Association of Ireland (ESAI)

Co-authored books

with friends and colleagues: Caitriona McDonagh, Mary Roche and Bernie Sullivan.

Enhancing Practice through Classroom Research: A teacher's guide to professional development 2nd ed. (2020)

Caitriona McDonagh, Mary Roche, Bernie Sullivan and Máirín Glenn

Introduction to Critical Reflection and Action for Teacher Researchers (2016)

Bernie Sullivan, Máirín Glenn, Mary Roche and Caitriona McDonagh

Learning Communities in Educational Partnerships: Action Research as Transformation (2017)

Máirín Glenn, Mary Roche, Caitriona McDonagh and Bernie Sullivan

My values

I value holistic ways of coming to know, that embrace social justice, fairness, inclusion and care. I see myself as a knowledge generator along with others. My values:

- form the foundations of my practice...
- establish the over-arching principles towards which I aspire...
- become the explanatory principles by which my research can be evaluated and validated.

Passion

I am passionate about self-study action research and living theory. I am convinced of their power as a means, not only of enhancing practice but also, of taking action and engaging in research to generate theory in the process.