

Commenting & Infographics

Commenting

The search strings below are the best searches you can use to find posts in your niche that you can comment on and get a backlink for: -

"YOUR NICHE" site:.edu "comment" -"you must be logged in" -"posting closed" -"comment closed"

"YOUR NICHE" blog site:.com "leave a reply"

The section highlighted in green you need to replace with your niche, so if your niche is weight loss, replace it with WEIGHT LOSS, and make sure you keep it in the speech marks for the most relevant targeted search. If your niche is too focussed, broaden the niche, so in my example, if there weren't many posts to comment on, I could broaden the niche and se HEALTH, but no need to use capitals, that is just for my emphasis here.

You can also change the parts of the search strings that are highlighted in yellow for other domain extensions, so in the first example, it is .edu. When you have completed your searches of EDU sites, you can go on to search for .gov sites and .com and .net by substituting the edu (highlighted in yellow) for any of the following: -

- GOV
- COM
- NET
- ORG

Infographics

Info graphics are a good way to get backlinks to your site from high authority sites. Also, they are easy to get. Here is a list of 30 top sites that let you submit your infographic in return for a backlink: -

Anchor Text

If you have the opportunity to add HTML anchor text to your infographic listing, DON'T use "Money Phrase" or "Part Money Phrase". You need to save those for your most powerful backlinks, so be sure to use any of the following anchor text: -

- Brand
- Domain
- URL
- Generic

Preferably, use Generic anchor text such as the following examples: -

- Click here
- More information here
- Click for more details
- Visit Site
- Website
