Dear Parents/Careers,

In September 2020 new statutory guidance around the teaching of Relationships and Health education was published.

A consultation on the guidance was due to be completed in Spring/Summer term 2020 however due to the COVID restrictions this was not completed.

An extension was put into the guidance allowing schools to consult with parents until Easter 2021.

To complete our consultation, I have recorded a video explaining why the guidance has come into place and how we as a school are going to be delivering the guidance to our children in school.

Please follow this link to access the video.

On the PSHE/RSE page there are also resources to support you, to understand what is going to be taught and when.

You will find:

- The policy – updated summer term 2020
- A Leaflet on jigsaw and LGBTQ
- A Leaflet on what primary schools are expected to teach
- A Guide to RSHE Leaflet
- The powerpoint from the video
- A Map of the statutory Guidance and when it is taught in each Year group.
- The statutory guidance from the DFE

Once you have watched the video and read the above information I would be grateful if you could complete the following survey
