BT

Suddenly, he started to get engulfed by anxiety. The sky started to cover the sun in darkness. He wondered, what is this feeling? He didn't feel safe. He looked at his hands that were unsteady. What was this feeling? Gregory's heart started pounding as fast as a cheetah's feet! Scampering, he started swimming. Something nipped his feet like pepper.

An overhanging, gloomy shadow was death staring Gregory in his hazel nut eyes. As he turned around, he saw a... SHARK!!!! His face turned pale and he was breathing frantically. "HELP!" Shouted Gregory whilst waving his hands. He started paddling with his feet. The shark's bloody, fierce teeth gnawed at Gregory. Luckily, it was only a fish's blood, or was it?
