Friday 21st March 1954

Last week, Howard Carter and his team discovered a door leading to the legendary pharaoh's (King Tutankhamun) tomb, located in the Valley of Kings.

It has been reported that Howard Carter and his crew have discovered King Tutankhamun's tomb. It has been believed that it has not been 30 years of hard work. Eyewitnesses say Carter couldn't have done it without the local Egyptian, water boy, who was the true founder of the stairs leading to the discovery.

Howard reported there was a luxurious, exquisite golden pharaoh excavated from behind a door in the Valley of Kings and an untouched, hand-crafted crown encrusted with remarkable gemstones to visitors. Reported by Markot Asselt carefully uncovered by archaeologists. What his professional team including and Carter with a group of guide replied, "Wonderful things"

Now, all the precious, wonderful things found are getting shipped to the museum of Kiro. It is said that it will take approximately 10 years, or everything to get inspected. Here, in the museum of Kiro, the curator will impart all the information about the amazing artefacts to visitors.
