The were-wolf wizard saw Nobby and forced Nobby in his face and then pulled and then said "How dare you come into my wood!" He was holding a dagger with a hole of dark magic and bones and these were hot red lava bones they were filled with lava from the deadliest volcanoes in the world.

Nobby was terrified and tried to run but the wizard tried to grab him but Nobby was too fast for him and tumbled down a slope covered in icy moss. Angerly, the were-wolf wizard pushed Nobby but slipped and fell down down down and plunged into a deep hole. The dagger had come out of his hand and fell down and stuck into his hand and the evil creature was dead and Nobby found the treasure and went home.

THE END

once upon a time
there was two people
called Poppy and Ruby.
Poppy was 6 and she had long wavy white shiny hair. Ruby was 6 too and one day they went on a short walk in the forest. It was dark and cold in the forest, there was a scary old grey wolf who was sneaking behind them. When they were eating a tasty apple the bad wolf hid behind a tall thin brown tree trunk.

The Giant's Orchard ^{10/1/21}

Once upon a time there was a huge, beautiful castle in a faraway land. In there lived a scraggy looking giant who was horrible and mean. Everyone was scared to go into the castle.

One day there were two little, happy children called Hansel and Gretel entered the giant's castle and started playing in his lovely orchard. The giant was very angry. Suddenly Gretel saw the giant who was putting something in an apple. He then offered Hansel to eat it but Gretel warned him and they both ran away in fear.

Rosie knew the witch because the witch tried to steal the statue of wishes many years ago. The witch was punished and the witch had to stay in the ancient forest for ever. Rosie put a spell on the witch to hop like a frog and smell like old cheese so that everyone was a fraud of her. Rosie, being the kind fairy godmother she was and Rosie thought the witch had been punished for the right amount of time so Rosie let the witch free.
