RULES OF COLLABORATION BETWEEN BOLDBRAIN CANDIDATES AND COACHES 2020

During the Boldbrain acceleration program, the coaching services provided by the organization are free of charge within the limits of a budget agreed on with coaches. Participants in the program are required to abide to the following working rules:

- 1. Candidates cooperate actively with the coaches and with the organization, showing attitudes based on openness, honesty and readiness to learn.
- 2. The result of the cooperation between candidates and coaches should lead to the strategic improvement of the project, which is essential for the subsequent selection steps.
- 3. Candidates will consider the coaches' recommendations in his/her decision-making. Full responsibility for all decisions stays nevertheless completely within the candidate team.
- 4. Candidates commit to deliver the required documents and to meet the agreed milestones. Coaches are entitled to require further deliverables than those indicated in the shared guidelines. Failure or delay to perform may result in the immediate exclusion from the Boldbrain program.
- 5. Each coach who participates in Boldbrain is appointed and in charge of a mandate by the organization.
- 6. Coaches have non-exclusive employment contracts with the organization, which include confidentiality clauses. In addition, coaches sign a Non-Disclosure Agreement with the organization.
- 7. If during the coaching process a conflict or disagreement with any coach arises, the organization must be informed immediately. The organization will make proposals for conciliation. Participants in this case must be willing to resolve the conflict and be willing to accept any proposals for conciliation proposed by the organization. If conciliation fails, candidates may be excluded from the program.
- 8. Applicants, who sign a non-disclosure agreement with the organization, are required to keep confidential all information relating to other applicant projects acquired during the Boldbrain program.
