BABY ON BOARD!

Ryan Murphy and David Miller's house is about to get a whole lot cuter. The American Horror Story cocreator, 54, has announced that he and his photographer husband are expecting another son this summer. The pair are already dads to sons Logan, 7 (above), and Ford, 5. Congratulations!

SWEET INVESTMENT

George Floyd's 6-year-old daughter, GiGi (a.k.a. GiGi), now owns part of the House of Mouse thanks to Barbra Streisand, who gifted the little girl with Disney stock (currently valued at $115 per share) and two of her albums. "I love my daddy and I miss him so much," GiGi tells Us. Rest in peace and power, Mr. Floyd.

IT'S ABOUT TIME!

Matt James will be making Bachelor history as its first African-American lead. The research analyst, 28, was set to compete on Clare Crawley's season of The Bachelorette, which was postponed due to the pandemic. Now he'll go on his own journey to find a wife instead. "It's not a black or white thing," says the cofounder of the nonprofit ABC Food Tours, which he works on with his best friend, Bachelorette alum Tyler Cameron. As for the women, "the early stages of casting are already underway," a source tells Us. And whichever lady steals his heart will be a lucky one. "People have nothing but nice things to say about him," adds another source. "He's such a good guy."

RELIEF IN SIGHT

Anthony Mackie is a real-life superhero. The Avengers star, 41, has helped launch the United for Grocery Workers Relief Fund, which provides grocery workers in his native New Orleans with a onetime $150 direct credit to put toward their utility bills. Says Mackie, "It's important that we express our gratitude and appreciation."
