Awards:

Fulford School continues to be recognised nationally for its exceptional standards, most notably being named The Sunday Times Comprehensive Secondary School of the North 2025, an accolade that reflects the outstanding achievements of our students at GCSE and A level and the collective dedication of our staff, families, and wider community.

Alongside this, the school has earned a number of further awards and quality marks that celebrate not only academic excellence but also our commitment to character development, inclusion, and high-quality learning experiences. These recognitions demonstrate our ongoing ambition to provide an environment where students thrive, grow, and achieve their very best, and they reinforce our reputation as a school that consistently aspires to — and achieves — exceptional outcomes.
