The paper in its present form gives an adequate description of the study design, and a reasonable argument for reanalysis of these data. I suggested to add information about the randomization procedure (and concealment), and to provide an English translation for 2 parts of the materials. To conclude, the data repository that is used is not included in the list of recommended depositories from the JoPD

The paper needs some editing with regard to English, specifically grammar.

In the abstract it is mentioned that for verification purposes, the narratives were compared to the dental records. These results do not seem to be present in the paper.

The randomization procedure could be described more specifically.

The sample might not be that representative, since participation was voluntary, took a lot of time and was paid for. Important information necessary if one would want to use the data set, is not translated into English and only available in Swedish.
