Political Substance of the Speeches made in the House of Commons on Wednesday the 15th of December 1779 on Mr Burke's giving notice of intention to bring in a Bill after the Christmas recess for the Retrenchment of Public Expenses and for the better securing the Independence of Parliament. London: J Almon, 1779. 17pp plus title 8vo Sticked, untrimmed, partly uncut. The "Substance" was evidently conveyed to Almon by Burke himself, who asserts his thesis that, "The fatal and overgrown influence of the Crown" has caused "the whole of all of our grievances." He speaks out against corrupt, negligent, self-serving, power-hungry Ministers: "the same men, in the same power, sitting undisturbed before you, though thirteen colonies have been lost." Supporting Burke, Dempster responds "that the influence of the Crown is the true cause of the mischievous origin, the destructive progress, the absurd conduct, and the obstinate prosecution, without view or hope, of this cursed American war... If it continues, and goes on as it has done, I vow to God, I do not think his Majesty will sit securely on his throne."
FIRST EDITION. Todd 31. 85 NUC 0572614 [1]. Not in Sabin or Adams J Almon the Battle of Tel-El-Kebir and somewhat bitterly referring to the fact that the official version of events did not give him the accolades he thought he deserved (something for which he was noted in later life) ' I don't know if you care to tell your brother, or if he cares to know - but the Bird's Eye view of the Battle in his paper is curiously inexact, and as usual does wrong to my unfortunate division. No troops whatever attacked between the Canal & my division which attacked the centre of the Egyptian lines just opposite the part where the interior line of works went back to Urabi's Camp -all of which as you know I captured...SIR [Garnet] Wolseley is of course represented in the front -the fact being that when I attacked he was at least a mile back in the desert and had no more to do with the fight after the night march began than you had...it is quite a masterpiece of error...'

India and the Punjab Storia do Mogor, or Mogul India, 1653-1708 By Niccolao Manucci. Translated with Introduction and Notes by William Irvine. Edited under the supervision of the Royal Asiatic Society and published for the Government of India1907 1st Ed. Three volumes (of 4), pp.lxxxix, [1], 386, 13 plates; xi, [1], 471, 14 plates, 3 in colour; xiv, 605, 15 plates, large folding table, folding map in rear pocket. First English translation of an eye-witness account of the court of Aurangzeb. Niccolao Manucci, a Venetian who reached Surat in 1656. Manucci continued to Delhi where he met Dara Shukoh, eldest son of Shahjahan, and enlisted as an artilleryman in his service. He fought with his master at Lahore, Multan and Bhakkar, but declined to enter Aurangzeb's service and made an expedition to Patna, Dacca and the Sundarbans, returning to Agra to study medicine Manucci practiced as a physician in Lahore for seven years (1670-76) before returning to Delhi where he was appointed to Shah Alam's court. In 1682 he fled to Goa and in 1686 to Madras and Pondicherry. The first part of Manucci's "Storia" consists of two sections, an account of his journey from Venice to Delhi, and a chronicle of the Moghul rulers from Timur to the accession of Aurangzeb. Part two deals with the reign of Aurangzeb interspersed with the author's journeys and adventures, 1658-1700. The original manuscripts on which this, the first full translation, is based are in Italian, French and Portuguese, and have themselves a colourful history. Part were taken to France and deposited with the Jesuits before being sold and passing through various hands including Sir Thomas Phillips, perhaps the greatest of all collectors or the written word. These are now in Berlin. The remainder were rediscovered by the translator in Venice where they remain. A very good set in original decorated cloth. Minor wear to head and tail of spine of first volume. Vols 1 & 2 in original decorative cloth, vol 4 in later green cloth.

India and the Punjab - Maharajah Duleep Singh A group of 5 letters and documents relating to Maharajah Duleep Singh in regards to the allowances of Sir John Login as the Maharajah's guardian and claims of the Maharajah. Some letters addressed to Secretary State of India include one dated 5th December 1858 stating Logins salary payment upon appointment as Guardian of HH The Maharajah Duleep Singh. Including parts of official memos regarding his claims. Another letter dated 13 March 1857, states 'No communication has been received from the Government regarding the Maharajah's position, it may be expected to arrive shortly.... this perhaps referring to the Maharajah desire to return back to India. In 1857, the maharajah wanted to go back to India after the Movement refused for him to be allowed to attend a University in Britain. The letters provide a fascinating insight into early life the last Sikh King of the Punjab.

Provenance - Login Family.

India and the Punjab Privately printed book, for private circulation amongst British Officials and the Maharajahs sympathisers. A large detailed bound book containing statement with numerous hand coloured pull out maps and plans, of major districts in the Punjab where the private family property of Maharajah Duleep Singh was, inherited from his father Ranjit Singh. These being lands and property in Ranjit Singh's possession before he became Maharajah of the Punjab, and illegally confiscated by the British alongside State property from Duleep Singh in 1849. The book begins with a 'Letter from the Maharajah Duleep Singh to the Earl of Kimberley of the India Office' dated 10th March 1885, reading 'I have the honour to transmit the accompanying statement, showing that the British Government is in possession of large landed Estates in the Punjab, to which in 1849, at the time of the annexation of the Punjab, I was entitled in my private capacity as one of the Sirdars or Chiefs of the Sikh Nation' he further adds 'These Estates were not affected by the treaty of annexation...' The book was compiled on the Maharajah's instructions by his solicitors Farrer & Co of Lincolns Inn Fields, with initial research conducted by Thakur Singh Sandhawalia. Mr Talbot of Farrer & Co. States due to the limited time at his disposal, the capitals of only seven districts of the Punjab were visited, and at each the revenue records of a number of villages selected...' Only those lands procured by Ranjit Singh before the year 1800AD have been included. Districts covered with coloured pull out maps and tables are Goojranwalah, Gooraj, Jehlum, Sealkot, Gooraspooor, Lahore, and Umrtsur. A rare record of Ranjit Singh's private landed estates before the founding of the Sikh Kingdom. Bound in later cloth with gilt titles to front. From the collection of the Login family.

India and the Punjab - Mahatma Gandhi A rare large portrait drawing from life of Mahatma Gandhi by Clare Winsten, c.1930. Provenance - from the estate of Clare Winsten's daughter, Ruth Harrison. Drawing titled -Gandhi Meditation. A very rare drawing of the great Mahatma Gandhi (1869-1948) is often referred to as the father of the Indian Nation.

Clare Winsten (1894-1989) was an Anglo-Jewish artist, illustrator, portraitist and sculptor. Clare Winsten came to the Slade as a student in 1910, the year when Roger Fry's "Manet and the Post-Impressionists" exhibition changed the views of many artists in London, and caused others dismay, as life-long convictions were brusquely challenged. She, showed academic and artistic talent early at school, gaining a scholarship to the Female School of Art. The artist's daughter Theodora, recalls, My parents life-time active involvement in social, humanitarian causes, as well as the arts, brought them into touch with likeminded people from many spheres. This affinity produced portraits of, among others, D H Lawrence, Montessori, Catherine Lonsdale, Mahatma Gandhi, Bernard Shaw.... My parents first met Mahatma Gandhi in the 1930s when living at Hampstead (and this) led to a remarkable series of paintings and drawings. There was such an empathy between them that Clare was invited to be there whenever she wanted. She also sketched Gandhi during his visit to England for the Round Table Conference of 1930-31. Pencil on woven paper, 11 x 13 inches image. 12 x 15.25 inches in frame overall. A very rare drawing of Gandhi from life.

India and the Punjab A large military battle plan showing the actions of the 14th November and 1st December 1844, and 7th April 1842 fought by the troops under the command of Major General Sir Robert Sale KCB by Hamlet Wade Capt H.M. 15th Lt infantry Major of Brigade to the Force. Major General Sir Robert Henry Sale was a British Army officer who commanded the garrison of Jalalabad during the First Afghan War. After severe fighting Sale entered Jalalabad on 12 November 1841. Ten days previously he had received news of the murder of Sir Alexander Burnes, along with orders to return with all speed to Kabul. These orders he, for various reasons, decided to ignore; suppressing his personal desire to return to protect his wife and family, he gave orders to push on, and on occupying Jalalabad at once set about making the old and half-ruined fortress fit to stand a siege. At last General Pollock and the relieving army appeared, only to find that the garrison had on 7 April 1842 relieved itself by a brilliant and completely successful attack on Akbar Khan's lines. Sir Robert Sale was promoted within the Order of the Bath to Knight Grand Cross (GCB); a medal was struck for all ranks of defenders, and salutes fired at every large cantonment in India. At the end of the war Sale received the thanks of parliament. In 1845, as quartermaster-general to Sir Hugh Gough's army, Sale again took the field in the First Sikh War. At Moodkee he was mortally wounded, and he died on 21 December 1845. A rare military map, unusually large measures approx 60cms x 50cms. Estimate: £80.00 - £100.00
