ENDAAE	Engineering Degree Apprenticeship (Aerospace) BEng (Honours) Aerospace Engineering

You can find full details of your course in the Programme Specification.

Important points

- To take a degree apprenticeship the student must be in full paid employment with an engineering company that are prepared to support them in gaining a degree.
- Students will study the BEng (Honours) Aerospace Engineering degree at UH alongside developing their professional behaviour, skills and knowledge with their employer to satisfy the requirements for the Product Design and Development Engineer Apprenticeship Standard.
- The academic studies are accredited by both the Royal Aeronautical Society and the Institution of Mechanical Engineers (IMechE) as meeting the academic requirement, in part, for Chartered Engineer registration.
- The course consists of 22 taught modules worth 15 credit points plus an individual project worth 30 credit points (Total 360 credit points).
- A taught module typically requires 150 hours of study of which approximately a third will be at UH, a third during normal paid work hours and a third in the students' own time.
- The Individual Project module involves 300 hours of study, normally during paid work hours on a project for the employer. Note a compensated pass cannot be awarded for the Individual Major Project, which must be included in the calculation of degree classification.
- Total 3600 hours of study + any additional study the employer may require.
- All work experiences shall be recorded in the student's Individual Learning Plan.

Academic Year

Academic Year 2020 – 2021

The University's academic year is made up of 3 Semesters. Each of these is made up of teaching weeks followed by exams.
