A programme specification is a collection of key information about a programme of study (or course). It identifies the aims and learning outcomes of the programme, lists the modules that make up each stage (or year) of the programme, and the teaching, learning and assessment methods used by teaching staff. It also describes the structure of the programme, its progression requirements and any programme-specific regulations. This information is therefore useful to potential students to help them choose the right programme of study, to current students on the programme, and to staff teaching and administering the programme.

A. Programme Rationale

The rationale for the English Language programme is to provide students with a structured sequence of modules through which they can develop their knowledge and understanding of topics in English Language, either as a Single Honours subject or in combination with another subject as a Major-Minor or Joint degree. This is achieved by offering introductory, intermediate and advanced modules that focus on different areas of English Language and the other subjects offered on the programme. The English Language modules at Level 4 provide a sound basis for students to understand and apply the relevant terminology for studying different aspects of language in more depths at higher levels. Modules at Levels 5 and 6 build on the knowledge acquired at Level 4 and apply linguistic analyses to different applied aspects of language study. One of these is the application to 'English Language Teaching' which is offered as a minor subject on the English Language programme. The curriculum is designed such that students will enjoy a balanced programme, in line with the recommendations of the QAA Benchmark Statement for English and Linguistics.

Level 4 modules assume no prior knowledge of English Language and introduce students to linguistic terminology itself (core modules) as well as the way the terminology is used to gain information about language use. In addition, students gain subject specific skills including essay writing and academic skills, as well as basic linguistic data analysis.

Level 5 modules build on the knowledge that is gained at Level 4 and provide a more in-depth knowledge of English linguistics (core modules) as well as applications in specific areas such as Sociolinguistics and Forensic Linguistics.

At Level 6, the modules are designed for students to develop a deeper understanding of language as applied to different areas as well as have the opportunity to focus on an aspect of English language of their choice in terms of an undergraduate project.

The Subject Programme Specifications for the other subjects available for study on the programme give more details of the content of the modules offered in those subjects.

The provision is designed to recruit students who have an A Level in English Language or who have a desire to develop their knowledge and understanding of aspects or topics in English Language.

Graduates are equipped for a variety of careers, particularly those that require a good understanding of Language and Linguistics: Speech and Language Therapy, Teaching English to non-native Speakers, Teaching Literacy and Academic Skills. They also include those traditionally open to Honours Graduates in the Arts and Humanities: the Civil Service, Local Government, journalism and publishing as well as for further study at postgraduate level.

B. Educational Aims of the Programme

The programme has been devised in accordance with the University's graduate attributes of programmes of study as set out in UPR TL03.

Additionally this programme aims to:

- offer students opportunities to study English Language either as a single subject area or in conjunction with subjects offered in the school;
- equip students with a range of subject specific skills;
- equip students with a range of transferable skills.

The aims of a Joint in English Language are, in addition to the above:

- to provide students with knowledge and understanding of a number of topics within the fields of theoretical and descriptive English Language and Linguistics;
- to develop in students the skills and understanding necessary for the rigorous exploration, analysis and presentation of linguistic issues and problems.
- to enable students to show their grasp of key concepts and terminology in the areas they have studied;
- to enable students to demonstrate their awareness of key issues in these areas, and their ability to argue a case on particular questions;
- to enable students to apply well-defined descriptive categories to data, commenting on difficulties encountered;
- to enable students to show their understanding and application of methodologies appropriate to the discipline that they are studying.
- to provide student with sufficient understanding, knowledge and skills to enable them to pursue subsequent postgraduate study.

The aims of a Major in English Language are, in addition to the above:

- to provide students with substantial knowledge and understanding of a range of topics within the fields of theoretical, descriptive and applied English Language and Linguistics;
- to enable students to become familiar with a range of primary sources published in the field;
- to enable students to undertake independent research.

The aims of a Single Honours in English Language and Linguistics are, in addition to the above:

- to provide students with comprehensive knowledge and understanding of a wide range of topics within the fields of theoretical, descriptive and applied English Language and Linguistics;
- to enable students to become familiar with a broad range of primary sources published in the field;
- to enable students to undertake independent research and longer pieces of writing.

The aims of a minor in English Language Teaching are:

- to introduce students to the study of second language learning and second language teaching with a specific focus on ELT and equip them with a wide range of transferable skills (both cognitive and practical) as a basis for further study and employment
- to develop students' knowledge and understanding of key concepts, issues and theories of ELT
- to provide students with the skills to produce empirical research on a topic related to an aspect of ELT

The aims of Creative Writing, Journalism, Media, Film, History, Philosophy and Languages (French, German, Japanese, Mandarin, Spanish) as a Joint or Minor subject on the programme are given in their respective Subject Programme Specifications.

C. Intended Learning Outcomes

The programme provides opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate knowledge and understanding, skills and other attributes in the following areas. The programme outcomes are referenced to the QAA benchmark statements for Linguistics and English and the Frameworks for Higher Education Qualifications of UK Degree-Awarding Bodies (2014) and relate to the typical student. Additionally, the SEEC Credit Level Descriptors for Further and Higher Education (2021) have been used as a guiding framework for curriculum design.

Students studying English Language as a single subject area, or a major or joint subject have the opportunity to develop and demonstrate knowledge and understanding, skills and other attributes in all of the areas below. This is due to the core modules (Introduction to Linguistics 1 and 2, Investigating Language, English Grammar and Sounds of English) and skills developed in the optional modules.

Students studying a minor in English Language Teaching have the opportunity to develop and demonstrate knowledge and understanding, skills and other attributes in all of the areas below, except for the transferable skills involving the presentation of ideas and working as a team (D7 and D8).

The Learning Outcomes that students will develop when they study Creative Writing, Journalism, Media, Film, History, Philosophy and Languages (French, German, Japanese, Mandarin, Spanish) as a Joint or Minor subject on the programme are given in their respective Subject Programme Specifications.

Knowledge and Understanding	Teaching and learning methods	Assessment strategy

Knowledge and understanding are assessed through a combination of unseen and seen 2-hour examinations and in-course assessments in the form of essay assignments, structured learning histories, article reviews, take-home exercises, in-class tests, projects, data analysis, coursebook analyses, and oral presentations. Major and Single Subject students may be assessed via an optional 5,000 or 9,000 word dissertation (via the Language & Communication Short Project and Language & Communication Project modules). ELT students will be assessed via an ELT Project.

Work-Based Learning, including Sandwich Programmes

A sandwich award requires the successful completion of at least 30 weeks full-time equivalent placement activity from a maximum of two separate approved placements, neither of which will be normally less than 12 weeks in duration, in order for the award to be made. This is in addition to the period of academic study required for the full-time award. This optional placement year is undertaken after Level 5 and before Level 6 and meets the SEEC criteria for Level 6.

Erasmus Exchange programme
Erasmus students are permitted to study modules at all levels.

Programme Structure

The programme structure and progression information below (Table 1a and 1b) is provided for the Honours award. Any interim awards are identified in Table 1b. The Programme Learning Outcomes detailed above are developed and assessed through the constituent modules. Table 2 identifies where each learning outcome is assessed. In addition, on the Major-Minor and Joint pathways the Minor or Joint Subject/Programme Learning Outcomes are developed and assessed through the constituent modules, as identified within the relevant Subject /Programme Specification.

Table 1a Outline Programme Structure

Mode of study Full-time

Students on a full-time mode of study must normally take the equivalent of eight 15 credit modules per year with the equivalent of four 15 credit modules undertaken per semester.

In addition, at level 5 students must normally study the module 5HUM1064 Graduate Skills, unless they take 5HUM1175 Employability Skills. Failure in this module will not prevent progression, provided the normal progression rules had been met.

Compulsory Modules (full-time students only) Module Title	Module Code	Credit Points	Language of Delivery	% Examination	% Coursework	% Practical	Semesters
Graduate Skills	5HUM1064	0	English	0	100	0	AB

Mode of study Part-time

Students on a part-time mode of study are allowed to take up to five 15 credit modules per year and most normally choose to study between 2 and 5 modules per year, with modules being taken in each semester. Varying rates of study are possible: students can increase or decrease their rate of study year by year or semester by semester in response to their changing circumstances. Students are entitled to take a break from study for a semester or even a year if their circumstances require it.

Students can apply to transfer to a full-time rate of study; this should be arranged before the beginning of the academic year.

Sandwich Year and Year Abroad

Students on all pathways may optionally undertake a placement year or a year abroad studying at a foreign University after successfully completing their level 5 studies at honours level. The placement year and year abroad offer an additional optional year (0 credited) which increases the length of the Honours degree award to a four year full-time degree. Successful completion of the placement year or year abroad is reflected in the degree title.

Sandwich Year

The placement year comprises an agreed period of 30 weeks (including employers' and statutory holidays) of work based learning a maximum of two institutions or companies which has agreed to those terms and conditions regarded as essential by the University of Hertfordshire. Students will be supervised according to university regulations. The learning experience will be assessed with assessments set by the Employability Tutor to enable students to demonstrate both their knowledge of the industry, their skills development and their professional attributes.

Placements are advertised through the Career and Placements Office and have included areas such as marketing, journalism, PR, management and Policy Units. Students may also source their own placement, but it must be subsequently approved by the School in terms of health and safety, equality legislation and supervisory guidelines before a student can take it up.

All students are eligible to proceed to a placement year provided they have achieved 120 credits at Level 4 and at least 90 credits at Level 5 and have completed the appropriate placement induction and documentation. Success in the placement will be recognised in the title of the award but does not carry additional credit towards the Honours programme.

Year Abroad

The year abroad comprises an agreed programme of study in the third year of a partner institution in Europe (other than the UK), North or South America, Australia or Singapore with which the University of Hertfordshire has an institutional agreement.

A student's programme of study will be negotiated and approved by the Dean of School (or nominee) in consultation with appropriate others and the host University. The programme provided by the host institution may comprise taught modules, a research project, field studies, or a mixture of these components. The programme of study will require a minimum of 25% of studies to be undertaken in aspects of culture of the placement country. Prior to the commencement of the year abroad, the student and Study Abroad Tutors from UH and the host institution will agree a learning contract. The learning contract will specify the assessment requirements to be met for successful completion of the programme of study. A Module Board of Examiners will consider the results for the year abroad during the first semester of the following academic year. All assessments must be completed by the end of the year abroad, and no subsequent referrals will be permitted. Students who have varied their programme of study without agreement from UH or have failed to meet the requirements of the learning contract will not have their year abroad studies included in the degree title.

A student must confirm the intention to study abroad during the first ten weeks of study at Level 5. This will enable a place to be negotiated at a host institution and the Study Programme and learning contract to be arranged and agreed. Only a limited number of places exist. These will be awarded on the basis of the suitability of students and guided by choice on the most appropriate programme and host institution.

To be eligible to proceed to a year abroad, a student must, by the time of the Semester B Module Boards of Examiners, have achieved at least 210 credits overall, including at least 90 credits at Level 5. Success in the year abroad will be recognised in the title of the award but does not carry additional credit towards the Honours programme.

For the year abroad in Europe where study will be undertaken in a foreign language students must meet the host University's language requirements.

Combined Placement and Study Abroad Year

Students who are eligible for the Year Abroad or Placement Year will also be eligible for the combined Placement and Study Abroad Year. This will involve a semester spent in a partner university abroad that is willing to provide a study abroad semester, combined with an appropriate placement of a minimum of 12 weeks which can be taken either abroad or in the UK.
