Programme Code: LAWLLM/ LAWLLME

Programme Specification

This programme specification is relevant to students entering:
18 September 2023

Associate Dean of School (Academic Quality Assurance):
Barbara Henry

Signature

A programme specification is a collection of key information about a programme of study (or course). It identifies the aims and learning outcomes of the programme, lists the modules that make up each stage (or year) of the programme, and the teaching, learning and assessment methods used by teaching staff. It also describes the structure of the programme, its progression requirements and any programme-specific regulations. This information is therefore useful to potential students to help them choose the right programme of study, to current students on the programme, and to staff teaching and administering the programme.

This programme specification (PS) is designed for prospective students, enrolled students, academic staff and potential employers. It provides a concise summary of the main features of the programme and the intended learning outcomes that a typical student might reasonably be expected to achieve and demonstrate if he/she takes full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided. More detailed information on the teaching, learning and assessment methods, learning outcomes and content for each module can be found in Definitive Module Documents (DMDs) and Module Guides.

A. Programme Rationale

The LLM is a popular stage in a student's study prior to the vocational stage of legal training or as a foundation for other career routes such as academia or business roles. It builds upon undergraduate academic study and allows students to explore the law in far greater depth than was possible for them at an undergraduate level. Our students include law graduates (both home and overseas), graduates from other disciplines, as well as lawyers already in practice. We offer both a one year fulltime and two-year part-time LLM in Law, (enabling studying alongside other commitments). However, the full-time option remains by far the most popular option with students. This year, we have introduced two 2-year full-time courses consisting of LLM (Sandwich) and LLM with Work Experience in order to allow students to combine their interest in academic law with gaining valuable practical experience.

The LLM programme is designed to enable students to explore legal themes/concepts in depth, to inter-relate and evaluate them, and subsequently apply the law to complex problems and theories. Our LLM students are encouraged to be imaginative and to be ready to make creative, independent leaps in their research, (i.e. original thoughts). This approach is reinforced through rigorous research on the part of students to generate academically informed and commercially aware solutions/outcomes to complex problems. The goal of our LLM is to ensure that our students should not only be well qualified in independent research and complex problem solving but also equipped with a unique set of transferable, professional and research skills useful in their career and future employment.

The Hertfordshire Law School LLM offers a variety of specialisations and emphasizes the connections and inter-relationships which may exist between the courses offered on the Masters Degree programme. The seven named courses consist of: Business Law, International Commercial Law and Arbitration, Intellectual Property and Information Law, International Human Rights Law, Criminal Justice, together with 2-year full-time courses of LLM (Sandwich) and LLM with Work Experience. This provides students with substantial flexibility in creating the programme of study which suits their particular needs/interests. The course specific module for each course ensures that students studying for a particular award are differentiated from students studying for any other award. Some courses also include a compulsory module of study that must be selected by students for that award (but which is also available as an optional module for other courses of study). They will also complete a dissertation/mini dissertation (if studying on Clinical Legal Education and Research Module) relating to one of their module choices. Students are then free to study optional modules alongside these course specific subjects and any compulsory modules.

B. Educational Aims of the Programme

Diversity and Inclusion

Our programmes are purposefully designed to enable all students to engage meaningfully with the curriculum by being accessible and representative. We will support students to shape their learning experience, removing barriers and enabling them to succeed. The curriculum explicitly includes multiple and representative perspectives, valuing collective identities and individual diversity. Learning, teaching and assessment activities help students to understand how they can enhance outcomes both for themselves and for others. All students belong to a learning community, and during their studies we really want to hear their voices, encourage them to listen to others, and express themselves.

The programme has been devised in accordance with the University's graduate attributes of programmes of study as set out in UPR TL03.

Additionally this programme aims to:

- Offer legal specialisations at the forefront of the subject areas of students' choice, supported by expert, research-rich and research-informed teaching, as well as professional legal knowledge and skills
- Enable students to specialise in the area of their choice, by offering a flexible and intellectually challenging range of courses, with a global, business-facing, commercial, international, developmental or digital legal perspective.
- Further develop students' intellectual, transferable, practical and interpersonal skills, which enhance their prospects of employment in a range of different sectors.

Graduate Attributes

Our graduates will be capable and professional, creative and enterprising, and will build their social and global awareness throughout. In addition to their subject expertise and proficiency, as a University of Hertfordshire graduate, they will be:

- Professionally focused
- Globally minded
- Sustainability driven
- Digitally capable and confident
- Inclusive and collaborative

- Evidence based and ethical

C. Intended Learning Outcomes

The programme provides opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate knowledge and understanding, skills and other attributes in the following areas. The programme outcomes are referenced the Frameworks for Higher Education Qualifications of UK Degree-Awarding Bodies (2014) and relate to the typical student. Additionally, the SEEC Credit Level Descriptors for Further and Higher Education (2021) have been used as a guiding framework for curriculum design.

Knowledge and Understanding:	Teaching/learning methods & strategies	Assessment
A1 A systematic, current and in-depth knowledge of a number of specialist legal and/or criminal justice concepts, and where appropriate to the module, in the context of other disciplines.	Weekly seminars comprise a combination of staff lectures, small group work as well as large group discussions, role plays, debates and student presentations. Knowledge and understanding are initially developed through directed research activities which include a combination of the following (i) interactive module site which sets out the leading academic opinions / research to be covered during the session, together with an overview of complex / contradictory areas (ii) Recommended reading so as to prepare for the session (interdisciplinary where appropriate); (iii) Further reading as consolidation work and student work following the session; (iv) Deep-linked materials available via the Canvas module page, (i.e. cases, law reports); (v) staff-student discussion group facility on the Canvas module page; (vi) student discussion facility on Canvas; (vii) online lectures relevant to the whole cohort ( e.g. on research methods, referencing, academic conduct)	Knowledge and understanding are assessed through the following: Each of the four 30-credit modules require students to submit coursework assignments, poster presentations, prepare group oral presentation/conference/arbitration simulation or other practical work.[delete poster and practical]
A2: An ability to critically evaluate theoretical and practical legal, criminal justice and, where appropriate, interdisciplinary concepts to arrive at appropriate solutions.			The assignments require independent research with an ability to critically evaluate theoretical and legal concepts. (A1 and 2).
A3: A professional understanding of practice-related issues and contexts pertinent to the subject area.			Poster design is required by a group of students, where they demonstrate professional and practical knowledge and application (A3).
For the Sandwich Award		Group oral presentations, conference style presentation and dispute resolution simulation assess professional and practical knowledge and application (A3).
A4: Build contextual knowledge of aspects of legal and/or criminal justice services through a substantive work placement experience		The Dissertation builds on this foundation by requiring students to identify a subject area and to focus on aspects which are at the forefront and/or invite academic exploration. Students are required to explore an appropriate methodology, (i.e. research plan and literature review) (A1, A2, A3).
For the Work Experience Award
A5: Build contextual knowledge of legal and/or criminal justice services through work experience	Weekly seminars include sections devoted to staff lecturing so as to provide students with clarification of key points/issues. Other sections of the weekly seminar include small group work, which enables students to pool resources/knowledge and to work collectively on solutions to problem scenarios and/or essay

Role plays and debates are also used occasionally to complement the sessions and enable the development of various skills (teamwork, debating, persuasion, negotiation, presentation in writing and orally etc.). Further independent research is encouraged, through assignments which require students to consolidate their knowledge so as to formulate solutions and arguments. complex / unpredictable problem scenarios and/or essay type questions focusing on academic research. Large group discussion then enables students to raise questions so as to clarify any queries arising from the work undertaken during the weekly seminar.

Role plays and debates are also used occasionally to complement the sessions and enable the development of various skills (critical analysis, team and collaborative work, debating, persuasion, negotiation, effective communication in writing and orally etc.). These activities are designed so to promote diversity and cultural exchange, and foster a global outlook on legal/criminal justice issues.

Further independent research is encouraged, through assignments which require students to critically evaluate the material, (including that independently researched by the student) so as to formulate solutions to complex / unpredictable situations.

The Dissertation/Clinical Legal Research Modules enable students to develop further their initiative, time-management and responsibility in professional practice by requiring them to meet with their supervisors regularly, record, manage and communicate their research and work experience effectively. In addition to all other modules, these two modules, in particular, develop and require students to formulate reasoned conclusions and propose new hypotheses and arguments.

Throughout, the learner is encouraged to develop transferable skills by maintaining a record of evidence and completing a personal development plan.

others with knowledge of the subject area (D1-3).

Poster design is required by a group of students, where they demonstrate an ability to communicate effectively on issues relating to the substantive areas of law, undertake a range of research tasks leading to an ability to formulate reasoned conclusions and present them succinctly. Students are also required to record, incorporate, assess, analyse, evaluate and communicate research material in a way that is comprehensible to others with knowledge of the subject area in a form of a poster (D1-3).

Group oral presentations, conference style presentation and dispute resolution simulation assess an ability to communicate effectively on issues relating to the substantive areas of law, undertake a range of research tasks leading to an ability to formulate reasoned conclusions and present them succinctly as a part of a group and orally. Students are also required to record, incorporate, assess, analyse, evaluate and communicate research material orally in a way that is comprehensible to others with knowledge of the subject area (D1-3).

The Dissertation builds on this foundation by requiring students to identify a subject area and to focus on aspects which are at the forefront and/or invite academic exploration. Students are required to explore an appropriate methodology, (i.e. research plan, literature review) (D1, D2, D3).

D. Programme Structures, Features, Levels, Modules, and Credits

The programme is offered in full-time (1 year and 2 years) and part-time (2 years) modes and leads to the award of a LL.M Degree. Entry is normally at the Masters level (with related degree qualifications) Intake is normally Semester A (September) or Semester B (February).

Professional and Statutory Regulatory Bodies

N/A

Work-Based Learning, including Sandwich Programmes

LLM with Sandwich: Students must complete at least 30 weeks full time work experience. Students must normally pass all modules in the first attempt of their first semester (Semester A) to proceed onto the placement. For students with visa restrictions, the placement would need to take place within the UK. Students are not guaranteed a placement but will be encouraged to find their own and work with HLS Placement officer and UH Careers and Employment Service. The introduction to work placement module will support students in their search for a work placement and making applications. The Sandwich award requires completion of a full-time work placement (minimum duration: 30 weeks). It is assessed through reports while on placement (part of the 'Work Placement' module), and by portfolio in the module at the start of the final semester.

Students on the LL.M Sandwich award who are aiming to progress onto the placement must meet the following progression requirements:

- No FRENs (Fail re-enrolment) are allowed from the 120 credits in Year 1;
- A maximum of 30 credits of FREF/DEF (Fail referred / deferred) modules are allowed.

Students on the Sandwich award who do not go on to a placement will transfer onto the Work Experience award route.

LLM with Work Experience: students who elect or transfer onto the work experience award will have to complete a 60 credit Work Experience module. This module includes compulsory elements including an introduction to the Law Clinic and commercial awareness. Students must complete 200 hours of work experience selected from a range of options. Student may also source their own work experience which must be approved by the School. It is assessed through reports while completing the work experience (part of the 'Work Experience' module), and by portfolio in the module at the start of the final semester.

For students on the LL.M with Work Experience route:

- No more than 60 credits of FREN/FREF/DEF (Fail re-enrol/Fail referral/Deferral) modules are allowed from Year 1;
- No more than 30 credits of re-enrolled modules allowed in any one Semester in Year 2.

Programme Structure

The programme structure and progression information below (Table 1a and 1b) is provided for the award. Any interim awards are identified in Table 1b. The Programme Learning Outcomes detailed above are developed and assessed through the constituent modules. Table 2 identifies where each learning outcome is assessed.

If a student wishes to study for a named award, then they must study the Course Specific Module for that award together with any compulsory module indicated for that course. They may then choose modules from the list of options outlined below. The dissertation or mini dissertation topic (if they have been accepted to study on Clinical Legal Education and Research module) should relate to one of their chosen modules. Refer to Table 1a below for further details.

Alternatively, students are free to choose any combination of modules offered during Semesters A and B, (a maximum of two modules per Semester; four in total), except that they may not choose any Course Specific Module. This leads to the award of an LLM in Law degree. Named PG Certificates and PG Diplomas are subject to the students completing the Course Specific Module and any compulsory module for that Award.

Intake is normally Semesters A (September) and B (January/February). Modules run only once per academic year. Therefore, a full-time 1-year Semester B intake student will start with the choice of semester B modules, followed by a Dissertation/Clinical Legal Education and Research module in Semester C, and finally finishing with a choice of semester A modules. In addition to the modules outlined below, all students (including students on the 2-year courses) must successfully complete either the Dissertation module or Clinical Legal Education and Research module, (which represent 60 credit points), in order to gain their LLM degree award. Please note that the Clinical Legal Education and Research module is an alternative Semester C (60 credit) module to the Dissertation module and will be available to limited number of applicants who will undergo a selection process over-seen by the Law Clinic Team. In addition, the LLM (Sandwich) 2-year full-time students must complete an Introduction to Work module (0 credits) in Semester B of the first year of study and a Work Placement Module together with a minimum of 30 weeks of work placement in Semester A/B of their second year of study. Similarly, 2-year full-time students selecting LLM with Work Experience must complete a Work Experience Module (60 credits), in addition to their work experience during their second year of study. For 2-year courses, the Dissertation module should be completed during Semester C of their second year of study.

7LAW2071 Research Methods and Skills is a compulsory zero-credit module which is intended to develop masters level skills in independent research and academic writing and this should be studied by all students in their first Semester of study. They must attend 60% of sessions.

Employability Skills and Career Planning (7LAW2001) is a zero-credit module which will be offered to students to help them to evaluate, develop and demonstrate their employability skills and attributes as they progress through their programme of study; and (2) explore and evaluate career routes and options in order to formulate, refine and implement a career development plan.

All non-Course specific modules may be studied within any other course as Optional Modules (including those Modules that are Compulsory for a named award).

Modules will normally run if a minimum of 20 students pick a module but remain subject to staffing constraints from time to time.

Modules run only once in an academic year, so for instance, semester B entrants will be able to choose from a list of semester B options. Their semester C will include the dissertation module (or Clinical Legal Education and Research module, where applicable), followed by a choice of semester A modules as their final semester.

All students must study a zero-credit module Research Methods and Skills, which will capture the research skills being taught throughout the programme. To pass this module, students must normally attend a minimum of 60% of the sessions and will be assessed on a Pass/Fail basis. The module will be offered for both semester A and semester B entrants.

D. Programme-specific assessment regulations

The programme is compliant with the University's academic regulations (in particular, UPR AS11, UPR AS12/UPR AS13 and UPR AS14) with the exception of those listed below, which have been specifically approved by the University:

All module assignments (save for any in class oral presentation assessments) must be submitted electronically via the module homepage on Canvas and in accordance with the electronic submission process outlined by the University.

Further points of clarification and interpretation relevant to this specific programme are given below:

All students must study a zero-credit module Research methods and skills, which will capture the research and academic writing skills being taught throughout the programme. To pass this module, students must normally attend a minimum of 60% of the sessions and will be assessed on a Pass/Fail basis. The module will be offered for both semester A and semester B entrants. Students who have a disability which might impact upon their attendance should consult with their disability advisor.

The following staged progression requirements apply to this programme:

1. For students on the sandwich route:
  - *In order to enrol onto Year 2 (Sandwich), students need to have passed 60 credits in semester A. Students who haven't passed 60 credits in semester A are able to transfer to the work experience route.
  - Up to 30 credits of FREF/DEF are allowed.
2. For students on the Work Experience route:
  - No more than 60 credits of FREN/FREF/DEF are allowed from Year 1;
  - No more than 30 credits of re-enrolled modules allowed in any one Semester in Year

F. Other sources of information

In addition to this Programme Specification, the University publishes guidance to registered students on the programme and its constituent modules:

- A dedicated programme site
- A Definitive Module Document (DMD) for each constituent module;

The Ask Herts website provides information on a wide range of resources and services available at the University of Hertfordshire including academic support, accommodation, fees, funding, visas, wellbeing services and student societies.

As a condition of registration, all students of the University of Hertfordshire are required to comply with the University's rules, regulations and procedures. These are published in a series of documents called 'University Policies and Regulations' (UPRs). The University requires that all students consult these documents which are available on-line, on the UPR web site, at: <http://www.herts.ac.uk/segreg/upr/>. In particular, UPR SA07 'Regulations and Advice for Students' Particular Attention - Index' provides information on the UPRs that contain the academic regulations of particular relevance for undergraduate and taught postgraduate students.

In accordance with section 4(5) of the Higher Education and Research Act 2017 (HERA), the UK Office for Students (OfS) has registered the University of Hertfordshire in the register of English higher education providers. The Register can be viewed at: <https://www.officeforstudents.org.uk/advice-and-guidance/the-register/the-ofs-register/>.

G. Entry requirements

The normal entry requirements for the programme are:

Minimum of a lower second class degree in law or a related subject (such as Business, Political Science, Humanities, History, Technology or International Relations) or other appropriate qualifications and/or experience. Where applicants have a non-standard background, an admissions interview will be held with the Postgraduate Admissions Tutor against set criteria.

The non-standard applicants are expected to demonstrate the following in their interview:

- enthusiasm and motivation for the study of Law at a master's level
- evidence of wider reading or experiences that have motivated the applicant to apply to or prepared him for the course, including his views on current legal issues
- consideration of whether there are any aspects of the LLM of particular interest to the applicant, how it relates to their current academic programme and what additional reading or relevant experiences (e.g. attending court hearings) the applicant has had which have led him to commit to this challenging degree programme
- how their academic strengths relate to the programme and how do any extra-curricular activities benefit the applicant and could help him develop during this programme of study
- personal characteristics and skills that will be useful to students in their study of Law, including the ability to apply logic and follow complex lines of reasoning; ability to produce clear and concise argument; high levels of accuracy and attention to detail; good communication skills; the ability to ask questions and think independently; intellectual curiosity and the motivation and capacity for hard work.

•Overseas equivalent qualifications welcomed. Minimum English Language requirement 6.5 IELTS with a minimum of 5.5 in each band.

For current entry tariff point requirements, please refer to the relevant page for the Course on the University website or on the online prospectus.

The programme is subject to the University's Principles, Policies and Regulations for the Admission of Students to Undergraduate and Taught Postgraduate Programmes (in UPR SA03), along with associated procedures. These will take account of University policy and guidelines for assessing accredited prior certificated learning (APCL) and accredited prior experiential learning (APEL).
