Programme Code: BSNMBA

Programme Specification

This programme specification is relevant to students entering:
01 September 2023

Associate Dean of School (Academic Quality Assurance):
Veronica Earle

Signature

A programme specification is a collection of key information about a programme of study (or course). It identifies the aims and learning outcomes of the programme, lists the modules that make up each stage (or year) of the programme, and the teaching, learning and assessment methods used by teaching staff. It also describes the structure of the programme, its progression requirements and any programme-specific regulations. This information is therefore useful to potential students to help them choose the right programme of study, to current students on the programme, and to staff teaching and administering the programme.

Programme Specification Master of Business Administration

This programme specification (PS) is designed for prospective students, enrolled students, academic staff and potential employers. It provides a concise summary of the main features of the programme and the intended learning outcomes that a typical student might reasonably be expected to achieve and demonstrate if he/she takes full advantage of the learning opportunities that are provided. More detailed information on the teaching, learning and assessment methods, learning outcomes and content for each module can be found in Definitive Module Documents (DMDs) and Module Guides.

A. Programme Rationale

This programme is designed as a generalist master programme, based on any discipline with a first degree but with little or no work experience aimed at preparing individuals for employment either related to their first-degree discipline or in a management role. The programme is designed to develop master's level knowledge and skills in business and management subjects, to enhance learners' competence, ability and employability by building on their first degree. The emphasis of the programme is on leadership through strategic management. Additionally, there is a distinctive, action-based professional orientation to the curriculum. Graduates will develop a sound understanding of business/organisational contexts and thus should be able to make an early and significant contribution to their employer. The programme provides critical and applied study of contemporary and cutting-edge management theory, delivered through real business problems.

The MBA journey begins through engagement with the knowledge, understanding and critical awareness of the essential functions and processes of business enterprises, their diverse nature and governance, and the ethical dilemmas their senior managers face as they consider the complex external environments within which the organisations operate. In a curriculum informed by research active faculty, the core business areas of human resources management, financial management, strategic management, operations and marketing include coverage of diversity, business ethics, corporate governance, evolutionary economics, entrepreneurial mind-sets and digital media.

The students registered in the programme have the option to select one of the available 'specialisms' (from here referred to as professional 'fields': "a particular branch of study or sphere of activity or interest."). These fields are sectoral and while the program remains generalist in nature, they allow students to gain deeper understanding of specific industries/sectors of their interest, by conducting research and analysis on their chosen field, if they wish. In order to focus on a specialism field, the MBA includes two core modules which enable students to design and undertake independent pieces of research—'Strategic Management Research' and 'Executive Career and Professional Development'.

The curriculum is underpinned throughout by the academic research, consultancy and professional practice undertaken by the School's researchers. Through several modules and peripheral activities, students have the opportunity to engage and collaborate with business and / or social enterprises. Throughout the programme, MBA students will benefit from guest lectures delivered by business practitioners as well as networking opportunities with MBA Alumni and business associates.

B. Educational Aims of the Programme

The programme has been devised in accordance with the University's graduate attributes of programmes of study as set out in UPR TL03.

Additionally this programme aims to:

- deliver a contemporary, critical, integrated and applied programme of study at postgraduate level within the area of Business and Management;
- equip students with the analytical and personal skills to deal with complex issues systematically, creatively, and responsibly, and make sound judgements in the absence of complete data;
- offer opportunities for students to demonstrate leadership and entrepreneurship in tackling and solving problems, and to act autonomously in planning and implementing tasks at a professional or equivalent level;
- provide theoretical grounding in approaches to research, supporting a practical understanding of how established research methods can be applied to develop and interpret knowledge of direct relevance to the challenges faced by both multinational corporations and SMEs.

C. Intended Learning Outcomes

The programme provides opportunities for students to develop and demonstrate knowledge and understanding, skills and other attributes in the following areas. The programme outcomes are referenced the Frameworks for Higher Education Qualifications of UK Degree-Awarding Bodies (2014), and relate to the typical student. Additionally, the SEEC Credit Level Descriptors for Further and Higher Education (2021) have been used as a guiding framework for curriculum design.

Knowledge and Understanding:	Teaching/learning methods & strategies	Assessment
A1- Analyse a broad range of organisations and the external context within which they operate	Acquisition of knowledge and understanding is through a combination of lectures, tutorials and workshops, outside visits, external speakers. Workshops may include simulations, role play case studies, external speakers and live projects. Throughout, the learner is encouraged to undertake independent study both to supplement and consolidate what is being taught/learned and to broaden their individual knowledge and understanding of the subject.	Knowledge and understanding are assessed through Knowledge and understanding are assessed through a range of assessment techniques. At Stage One the emphasis is on developing broad knowledge and understanding of business survival in complex environments, the tools, models and techniques for their analyses and development of new insights and critical awareness. Assessment will thus be predominantly 'live' problem or case study orientated with emphasis on testing the acquisition of core knowledge and its application through reports, essays, closed-book timed assessment, and reflective writing.
A2 – Assess the inter-relatedness of internal aspects of organisations
A3 – Evaluate how organisations may innovate, create value, manage financial and operational risk and strategically respond to forces and changes in the environment
A4 – Research and analyse the pervasive debates, issues and new insights affecting organisations A5 – Critically examine theories of leadership and strategy, evaluating their relationship to each other, and their influence on the organisation

A6 – Evaluate the limitations of different forms of data and use different research approaches, qualitative and quantitative business research methods and analytical tools for the investigation of business issues		Stage Two will have greater emphasis on integration of applications of theoretical perspectives, leadership and entrepreneurship on critical evaluation of live projects. Assessments will vary from critical case reports, written and oral presentation of business cases, and reflective business logs. A6 is supported in the Strategic Management Research and Executive Career and Professional Development modules and assessed in reports produced for these modules. Each stage will require a combination of assessment but the emphasis will transfer from applying integrated knowledge and understanding to critical application, synthesis and integration.
Intellectual skills:	Teaching/learning methods & strategies	Assessment
B1- Critically analyse relevant academic management and leadership theories and apply models, tools and techniques for the critical evaluation of real business issues B2 –Evaluate personal skills and practice. B3 - Recognise and address ethical dilemmas and CSR issues, applying ethical and organisational values to situations and choices B4 – Apply skills of research, analysis and interpretation appropriate for identifying business opportunities and challenges.	Intellectual skills are developed through the methods and strategies outlined in section A, above. Analytical, integrative and problem solving skills are further developed through the investigation of a real business venture. From the outset self-awareness and intellectual skills are developed through experiential learning and reflective writing. Opportunities to apply these skills to realistic business situations are integral to the programme and culminate in the Strategic Management Research and the Executive Career and Professional Development modules of the programme. Throughout, the learner is encouraged to develop intellectual skills further by independent study	Intellectual skills from B1-B4 are assessed through a combination of in-course assessments, and reflective writing assignments as in A above. B2 is specifically addressed through the reflective component of a range of module assignments, including reflective essays and a detailed portfolio detailed in the Executive Career and Professional Development module. B3 is assessed within several modules, in assignments ranging from critical essays to practical applications. Ethical research practices are developed and used in a number of modules. B4 is specifically supported in the Strategic Management

		Research and Executive Career and Professional Development modules and assessed in reports produced for these modules.
Practical skills:	Teaching/learning methods & strategies	Assessment
C1- Be creative and entrepreneurial and manage the creative process in self and others C2 - Conduct research into business issues both individually and as a team C3 - Use information and knowledge effectively C4 – Effectively apply numeracy skills and quantitative skills C5 – Enhance research and communication through ICT / digital media C6 – Deploy operations management skills effectively	Practical skills are developed through the methods and strategies outlined in section A, above. C2 is developed through the Strategic Management Research and the Executive Career and Professional Development modules. C5 is developed by use of Canvas to communicate with lecturers and fellow students, and by use of computers available in the Learning Resources Centre, as well as through formal teaching. C4 –C6 are developed in the community and business projects	Practical skills are assessed through a range of assignments built into individual modules which have oral or written presentations as outcomes as in A above. C2-C5 skills are assessed in reports and essays for several modules but in particular in the Strategic Management Research and the Executive Career and Professional Development modules. C6 skills are specifically supported in the Operations and Analytics module.
Transferable skills:	Teaching/learning methods & strategies	Assessment
D1- Communicate effectively both orally and in writing, and using a range of digital media D2 - Demonstrate high personal effectiveness including self-awareness, reflective practice and self-management; sensitivity to diversity in people and different situations and ability to continue learning D3 – Demonstrate good business ethics and value management D4 – Exercising a range of leadership skills, managing effective performance within a team environment and being able to recognise and utilise individual contributions in group processes.	Transferable skills are developed through a combination of lectures, tutored group interactions and coursework - including group presentations and reports and individual reflective essays. D1 is particularly supported by the Business School's Centre for Academic Skills Enhancement (CASE) through a combination of workshops, one-to-one meetings, and online briefings and tutorials. D1 and D2 are specifically supported by the UH Careers, Employment and Enterprise Service and the MLO Departmental Employability Champion Throughout, the learner is encouraged to develop transferable skills by maintaining a record of evidence and completing a personal development plan.	Transferable skills are assessed through a range of assignments including coursework reports and oral presentations, group work, individual reflective essays and, in particular, the assessments required for the modules Strategic Management Research and the Executive Career and Professional Development modules.

Throughout, the learner is encouraged to develop transferable skills by maintaining a record of evidence and completing a personal development plan.

D. Programme Structures, Features, Levels, Modules, and Credits

The programme is offered in full-time (1 year) mode and leads to the award of a Master of Business Administration. While there are no separate optional modules and all students need to undertake all 6 core modules listed, achievement of any bracketed award (field) requires passing both the relevant Strategic Management Research module and also the Executive Career and Professional Development in the named field. Intake is normally Semester A (September) and Semester B (January).
