

BUNKER TRADER OFFICER

Location: Dubai

Company

Established in 1992 in the USA, GMS is the world's largest Buyer of ships and offshore assets for recycling. With nine international locations, an award-winning Responsible Ship Recycling Program and a team of specialized experts, GMS continues to improve industrywide standards and influence positive social and environmental change in the global maritime community.

Overview

The candidate will be responsible for procurement of bunkers/lubes for in-house fleet and vessel operations

Specific tasks include but not limited to:

- Identify requirements and accurately calculate the grades and quantities needed.
- Select the best ports for replenishment based on the voyage ahead.
- Collect Delivery receipts and invoices to ensure all documentation is in place.
- Monitor prices and purchase bunkers in coordination with market movements.
- Negotiate any and all terms and conditions for bunkering contracts.
- Handle claims with traders and suppliers.
- Keep records of bunker fixtures and demonstrate cost savings for the company.
- Coordinate the entire bunker and lube delivery in all ports by communicating with agents and technical managers ensuring a timely and cost-efficient supply.
- Develop relationships with bunker and lubricant traders and suppliers worldwide
- Maintain speed and consumption data for the entire fleet and ensure best performance of the fleet
- Be an integral part of operations department

Minimum requirements

- 2 years' experience in bunker trading or procurement of bunkers for in house fleets
- Good understanding of contract terminology
- Strong commercial mindset
- Skilled at negotiations
- Team player
- Fluent in English
- Driven