Blame it on Wool and the Gang's vibrant spring '11 collection, but we're feeling like the easy breezy days of summer are already here. Peek-a-boo cutout sweaters and pale gray beanies are only a few of the gems featured in this adorable campaign (shot by Martin Bruno, brother of designer Vanessa Bruno) starring the ever-so-stylish Annabelle Dexter-Jones and the studly Charlie Klarsfeld from The Americans tooling around Greenpoint. Offering already-knit ready-to-wear along with DIY project kits, the wooly masters over at Wool and the Gang once again puts hand-knit basics on the radars of fashion-forward gals and guys everywhere. Whether you are the master knitter of your crew or the one who dreads the mere prospect of the yarn aisle at your local Michael's crafts store, Wool and the Gang has the perfect knit for you.
