CLUTCH,
FROM £285

WOOLANDTHEGANG.COM

Founded by Lisa Sabrier and Carolyn Main, this site is dedicated to all things knitted. Products are made with wool from Peru's Andean Highlands. Here, a new breed of sheep produces soft, bulky wool with thermal properties, which is hand-knitted by women local to Lake Titicaca. Best buy: the Lil' Joe waistcoat (above).

WAISTCOAT,
FROM £145

Koturltd.com

A Kotur clutch comes in multiple guises – in addition to vintage brocades, Swarovski crystals, feathers, wicker, bamboo and raffia, this season, founder Fiona Kotur Marin adds tinalak (a traditional hand-woven fabric made by the Tiboli tribes in the Philippines) to the mix. Best buy: Bugel clutch in petrol tinalak with Mandarin clasp (above left). Showmeyourwardrobe.com

Who can resist taking a virtual peek into the wardrobes of fashion-industry insiders? London stylist Jackie Dixon photographs models, fashion editors and designers in their top five get-ups (left).

Runway.blogs.nytimes.com

The New York Times fashion scribe Cathy Horyn isn't known for her gushing editorials – her brusque Armani show review once saw her banned. But if you want honest, real-deal front-row coverage, this is the blog for you.

Stylebubble.typepad.com

Susie Lau has been creating her own style bubble since 2006. She may call herself a fashion outsider, but every day, 10,000 people worldwide log on to see her latest crush. She has earned respect in the industry, being one of the few style bloggers to get a front-row seat at London Fashion Week.

Garancedore.fr

Garance Doré is a fashion illustrator who launched her blog in 2006. Raised by a mother dressed in Alaïa and Mugler, and fed on a diet of glossy magazines, Doré got a head start in the style stakes. She recently added street-style pictures to the blog, which is her catalogue from this season's fashion weeks, beautifully shot and featuring inspiring outfits.

Deelightful.blogspot.com

This slick fashion journal pulls beautiful imagery from all your favourite style magazines. Expect a nonchalant Lula-meets-Terry Richardson aesthetic from a blogger with a penchant for studs, sunglasses and a sweet obsession with unicorns.

Seaofshoes.com

Stylish suburbanite Jane Aldridge is a self-confessed shoe addict. Her daily wardrobe-diary posts see her snapped in her latest ensemble in her bedroom, in front of her wall of shoes. She may be just 16 years old, but Aldridge's latest shoe crushes and style angst earn her up to 25,000 posts a day.

Fashiontoast.com

Californian blogger Rumi Neely uploads dreamy, sun-filtered imagery of herself modelling everything from Alexander Wang to American Apparel, photographed all around her native San Francisco by her boyfriend Colin. Rumi's posts receive hundreds of comments – love her or not, she's the cyber queen of vintage.

Fashionpirates.blogspot.com

Part-journal, part-style whimsy, fashion pirate Arabelle posts daily. Her intriguing style references run from granny chic to towering stripper shoes. You'll be charmed and entertained. AF
